KLEIN-SCHALL MARRIAGE

Max Klein leads a Plattsmouth Lady to the Altar.

Metropolitan hall was the scene of a pretty wedding last night when Max Klein, the son of J. Klein of 2719 Cuming street, led to the hymeneal altar Miss Sarah Schall, one of the most popular young ladies of Plattsmouth society. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rabbi Abraham Simon.

The bride was gowned in a dress of white crepe de chene over white taffeta and carried white roses. The bridesmaids were Laura and Rose Schall, Rose and Clara Batten of Plattsmouth, Anna Klein and Sadie Lesser of Omaha. The groom was attended by Louis Muscovitz, Sam A. Adler made a capital master of ceremonies and Councilman Harry Zimman, Sam Newman and Louis Bloisky performed the services of ushers. The wedding march from 'Lohengrin' was played by Dimmick's orchestra.

The wedding supper was served after the ceremony in the banquet hall of the club, and later the time until midnight was spent dancing in the ball room. Nearly 400 guests were present.

Among the guests from Plattsmouth were M. Fanger, brother-in-law of the bride, who gave her away; Mr. and Mrs. Ike Pearlman, Mr. and Mrs. Elson, Mr. and Mrs. Peperberg, Ad Lutz, Tom Murphy, Art Halps, Dr. Frank Cuming, Rob Mosee and Sam Altschilder and wife. The Plattsmouth guests came in a special car over the Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Klein will be at home at Thirtieth and R streets in South Omaha where Mr. Klein is engaged in the wholesale grocery and meat business.
